ORGANIZED LAROR It is probable that labor throug out the United States at this time a more widely in I more efficiently organized han ever hafter This is the work largely of the knights of In bot, an organization comporatively new formations of this body are, as a rule instead tional and more moderate than those bitsert attempted by labor unions and to this fact the success of the Knights of Labor is largely the

The effit to secure ingher wages and batter conditions of labor is always a right of wirking people and the right to continue from the poesa is thewise no table? It is necessary however, to exercise a first that the demands of combined labor do not be one unreasonal le or comment abort on it is no me unreastant to except that I dustry is billed when employers of labor are subjected to conditions that compet them to subject loss. When the attitle for higher wages and shorter hours they do not keep always within limits that ren der their continue i emply munt possible. A business must be shut down, when cost of ma terials, the rate of wages, the condition of the market and other circumstances, thow no profit

It is undoubted that in some lines of in justry capital has had too much profit, and labor not enough. A pearer equalization of benefits, pur iscularly in those lines of business which par take more or less of the nature of monopoly, is necessary to justice. Hence the strike on the car lines of New York was a justifiable method r forcing those great fividend paying concerns to allow better wages. The profits on these in restments are very great they are supported by special privileges, and hence are not limble to upetition But in the ordinary lines of bus mess it is very different. An intense campetition keeps down profits, and employers seid in make as much money as employee suppose ported with Mr Pow lerly, chief of the organi ation known as the Knights of I abor, in which should always be moderate and reasonable that there should be no leasty action that stakes ought to be avoided, if possible, and that it are should always be a willingness fores mit of methods of arbitration for sattlement of afforences. The words of caution that come from V Low measures show that the thinking men of the Knights of Labor recognize the limitations of og nized actin Such action, powerfr as, it is when directed by reas n and instice, nust fall if it transcenia these limits and attempts to carry its pur-poses ty methods of oppression on the methods that condict with the necessary laws of in histry

When wages and the coulitions of service are not satisfactory to employes it is always their right to refuse either singly or in a body, to go on with the ework. They may quit, it "atrike But a stuke is often an til-advised thing. In many cases it is a demant for more wages upon a business that cannot pay more. The business is then closed, because in this way there is smaller loss than n going in

On the scuthwes ern railways there is now a general strike. This strike is one that seems to be hasty and inconsiderate. The men do not complain of the rate of wages or the horsest labor. Some thousands have struck by the one man, who we not wanted, was listing d from service. Now it is impossible to establish it as a rule that an employed shall give supply ment to a man or men whom he loss not want. The man may be nepared, i.e. may nake bin salf a nuisance, the business may not need him Can a labor organization right y and 3 stly say ployer to take lack the man whom he dies not want or has no use for, it cannot become a gen eral rule, because emply ers could not stan i it.

The demand of the car drivers of New York torsbetter wages was just for $2.50 per day is only fair pay for the long hours required in that service, and the railroad companies can well afford to pay it But the strike on the south ids, based on the discharge from ser wice of a man not wanted, is an ill advised effort to sustain that which cannot become a rule or principle of labor or gauvations, because it goes beyond the reasonable line of action to which organized labor, as well as all other things, must conform
